Jack Cooperman Joins Woodruff-Sawyer & Co.

San Francisco, California – May 26, 2009 – Woodruff-Sawyer & Co. announced today that Jack Cooperman has joined their firm as Vice President, Business Continuity & Loss Control. Jack will provide property loss control and business continuity management services to Woodruff-Sawyer clients.

Jack has been in the insurance industry since 1980. His background includes working in field and managerial positions at a global property insurer and various P&C insurance brokers, where he was successful at driving property loss control strategies. Most recently, Jack was president of his own risk management consulting firm specializing in business continuity management and property loss control. In this capacity, Jack has developed and helped implement business continuity and crisis management programs for various leading Fortune 500 companies.

"We are so pleased that Jack has joined the firm" said Charlie Rosson, CEO at Woodruff-Sawyer. "His expertise will be extremely valuable to our clients in assisting them to effectively manage their human and capital assets in an increasingly competitive global economy."
